Park Policeman Zwisler Arrests a Man with a Barber's Outfit.

Answers the Description of Agnes O'Nelli's Assallant, they have in their custody "Jack the Shearer," the monomaniac who clipped off the golden locks of pretty Agnes O'Nelll, of 129 West Forty-eighth street Fourth of July night, and who, it is has been terrorizing pretty Brooklyn The suspect says that he is Frank ber's outfit of shears, razors and clippers, which tended to refute his claim to being a paper-hanger.

Rogers was arrested last night in Madison Square Park by Park Policeman Zwisler. Artist Charles Templeman, of 18 East Twenty-third street, told the officer that he had seen a young man going through the pockets of a park "sleeper," and pointed out Rogers, sitting on a bench near by, as the "sleeper's" robber.
Zwisler went over towards where the young man was sitting, and the latter quietly walked to another bench near the Madison avenue side of the park. Zwisler stealthily followed and arrested him.
